A member of the Government Contracts Group, Daniel helps contractors address the challenges of federal procurement, offering thoughtful legal guidance and support at every stage of the government contracting lifecycle. His practice is dedicated to protecting contractors' business interests in an increasingly competitive and highly regulated environment.

As part of the Bid Protests Group, he defends and files bid protests before the Government Accountability Office, the Court of Federal Claims, and the Federal Aviation Administration's Office of Dispute Resolution for Acquisition. His experience also extends to handling size and status protests and related appeals before the Small Business Administration's (SBA) Office of Hearings and Appeals, including final loan review decisions in the Payment Protection Program (PPP).

In the REAs, Claims, and Appeals arena, Daniel regularly prepares requests for equitable adjustment, certified claims, and appeals of contracting officers' final decisions to the relevant Boards of Contract Appeals. Additionally, he defends clients throughout the entire suspension and debarment process and responds to unfair Contractor Performance Assessment Reports (CPARs).

When not assisting government contractors with disputes, Daniel advises clients on a wide range of regulatory compliance issues, including but not limited to, the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR), Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement (DFARS), and cybersecurity (e.g., CMMC) and data rights. He also has experience with the SBA's various small business programs, such as SDVOSB, HUBZone, and WOSB, and joint ventures, including the Mentor-Protégé program.

Daniel also frequently works with government contractors alongside the Business & Transactions Group, supporting Mergers & Acquisitions, due diligence, contract novations, and name changes.
