Peter advises government contractors and commercial businesses on a broad range of federal procurement matters. He is adept at navigating issues related to eligibility for, and continued participation in, small business programs such as SBA's 8(a) BD, SDVOSB, WOSB, and HUBZone programs and the VA's VetBiz VIP program. He represents clients in actions before OHA, GAO, and ODRA. He also counsels federal contractors on FAR and small business regulation compliance, which includes auditing clients for potential size and affiliation issues.

Peter's practice encompasses the representation of tribes and ANCs, as well as their government contracting subsidiaries. He has assisted tribal entities with establishing the proper infrastructure to become robust government contractors, including establishing tribal holding companies to own Section 8(a), HUBZone, and other small businesses doing business with the federal government and assisting those businesses with their government contracting, subcontracting, and small business matters.

He helps prime and subcontractors prepare, file, and, if necessary, appeal REAs and claims to recoup time and/or money lost performing on a contract.

Peter heads the firm's Boulder, Colorado office and is President-Elect of NCMA Denver
